~ two consecutive Saturdays with homework before & the week between ~

SATURDAY JULY 8 & SATURDAY JULY 15, 2023

1:00p.m. to 4:00p.m. EDT

The visual magic of watercolor lies in the artful process of painting into a wet surface. Creating reflections in a lake or a stream, wet pavement, or sand all require careful wet brushwork. Creating the softness in clouds or shadows on snow use similar techniques. The ability to create these cool visual illusions in watercolor lies in an artist's ability to work with a complex combination of correct layering procedures, precise timing, merging wet brushwork, gravity, and correct values. In David Rankin's upcoming Zoomshop for the Euclid Art Association, he will share his precise procedures in order to help you refine and improve these advanced watercolor skills.
